Marvin and Company, P.C.

Reshma Mulchandani, a graduate of Siena College with a bachelor's degree in Accounting, is a principal in the tax department at Marvin and Company, P.C. Marvin and Company is a Latham and Queensbury, NY firm of certified public accountants and consultants that has been providing accounting, tax and audit services to New York's Capital Region and beyond for more than 95 years.

Reshma has more than 12 years' experience working with a variety of clients including not-for-profit, businesses and individuals. She started her career in Schenectady working for a CPA firm focusing on similar work. She then moved to Charlotte, NC where she continued her career with another CPA firm and eventually relocated back to the Capital Region to join Marvin and Company.

Reshma is an active participant in the annual Junior Achievement of Northeastern, NY Bowl-A-Thon and the CDPHP Workforce Team Challenge. She is currently a member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants as well as the New York State Society of Certified Public Accountants. A Lake George native, Reshma has recently taken up golf to better network and build her book of business.
