Helping a person or business Find Their Voice is so rewarding!

Hi. I am Karen Lombardo; founder of Put Another Way LLC and we have been creating original and relevant content for businesses for over a decade. Our culture is relaxed, our office mate is an old Pug named Izzy, and our philosophy is to listen first, create later.

For over 25 years, Karen enjoyed a career in sales and marketing. She formed Put Another Way to help small businesses Find Their Voice by providing website design and content creation at a cost effective price.

“I found there are so many people having a difficult time talking about themselves and their businesses. They just needed a little help.”

We spend the time to learn about you, your business, and your goals so that we get it right with a minimal amount of effort and anxiety on your part. The process can be fun and enlightening and when we are done, you just may understand and realize that you are as good as your clients say you are, and your message needs to be heard.
