

NICHOLAS FORCIER

The Albany Academies

Nicholas Forcier is a longtime education professional and has worked in virtually all levels of education throughout his 17-year career. Nicholas is currently the Director of Admissions and Enrollment at The Albany Academies.

Prior to joining The Albany Academies in 2020, Nicholas worked for The Darrow School in Columbia County, Bennington College in Vermont, and Binghamton University (SUNY). For most of his career, Nicholas worked to attract international students to the schools he worked for, and as a result, has been fortunate to have traveled to 42 countries. Nicholas was a founding member of Study New York, a 501(c)(3) dedicated to promoting New York State as a destination for international students and served on its inaugural board of directors. He has a passion for working with young people but is equally energized by being a leader within the professional community.

Nicholas graduated from SUNY Oneonta with a Bachelor of Science degree in Political Science, and from Stony Brook University with an MA in Sociology. He is originally from Newport, Oregon but has lived in the Northeast for about 20 years. He recently moved to Troy and is looking forward to becoming an active member of the community. When he's not at work, you can find Nicholas at his son's hockey events or exploring new places in the Capital Region.
