

ANDREA LANE

MVP Health Care

Andrea Lane is a Leader of the Commercial Health Promotion Department at MVP Health Care, where she oversees staff responsible for working on a consultative basis with employer group accounts on population health management initiatives. Andrea and her team manage the development, execution, and evaluation of data driven, results-based worksite well-being and preventative health programs to create successful and sustainable solutions for employer groups. Her team also works to collaborate with community partners across MVP's footprint to provide free or low-cost innovative and multi-dimensional well-being opportunities for all community members to benefit from.

Andrea received her B.S. in Biology from SUNY Geneseo and her Master of Public Health (MPH) with a concentration in social behavior and community health from the University at Albany, SUNY. She is also a Certified Health Education Specialist (CHES®) through the National Commission for Health Education Credentialing and a Certified Wellness Program Manager (CWPM) through The Chapman Institute.

Andrea grew up in Endwell, NY and currently resides in Albany, NY. Outside of work, she enjoys staying active by running, hiking, and playing in various sports leagues, volunteering in the community, cooking up new recipes, reading, and traveling.
