

ALEXIS MUSTO

Community Care Physicians, P.C.

Alexis Musto markets modern healthcare & motorcycles, not at the same time. She is the Director of Marketing, Communications, and Strategy for Community Care Physicians, P.C. (CCP), the largest independent multispecialty medical group in the Capital Region. Alexis started her CCP career over 16 years ago as an intern after graduating from Fordham University in the Bronx, NY. She now leads the marketing and communications department for this organization and its 1900+ employees. Her work earned CCP an Albany Addy Award and recognition in the Capital Region's Nori Award competition.

Alexis likes getting people excited about the things she's excited about, one being CCP and the other Fabbro Industries, an R&D start-up founded by her brother, Terence, where she serves as Chief Marketing Officer. Alexis and the Fabbro team are focused on bringing their flagship product to market – the patented Type 57x® integrated suspension frame for bicycles and motorcycles. Alexis received her MBA from Clarkson University Capital Region Campus, where she was inducted into the Beta Gamma Sigma international honor society for business. She enjoys the fast pace of business, particularly in her two different industries, and the close-knit community of the Capital Region.