

TAMANI WOOLEY BIO

Tamani Wooley is an Emmy Award–winning journalist, award-winning romance author, and proud foster-momprenneur of four amazing girls. With nearly 20 years of experience in television and media, she’s passionate about helping women and entrepreneurs find their voice, define their media presence, and tell their stories with power, confidence and authenticity through her consulting company, Tamani Wooley Media.

In 2024, Tamani fulfilled a lifelong dream with the release of her debut romance novel, Do You Dare?, the first book in her four-book DARE series. Her high-heat, multicultural love stories feature bold, smart, sassy heroines and the alpha men who are up for the challenge. Tamani believes every woman, regardless of age, race, or body type, deserves to see herself as worthy, powerful, and desirable on the pages of her books.

Do You Dare? went on to win First Place in Contemporary Romance at the International Impact Book Awards and earned Tamani a publishing deal with Storehouse Voices, an imprint of Penguin Random House.

Motivated by readers who felt personally transformed and inspired by her novel, Tamani created the “DARE to Become HER™ 21-Day Coaching Program,” helping women step into clarity, confidence, and their God-given destiny.

When she’s not speaking, writing, or coaching, Tamani serves on the board of the Capital Repertory Theatre—and is widely known for baking what may actually be the best chocolate chip cookies on the planet!
